Rt. 2 crash claims the lives of three Bethel area youths

Three area teenagers were killed Saturday evening in a one-car accident on Route 2 in Shelburne, N.H.

Driver Jonathan Tyler, 18, of Gilead, Keith Tedford, 17, also of Gilead and Cody Smith, 15, of Bethel died instantly, according to New Hampshire State Police.

The eastbound 1998 Mitsubishi Eclipse was speeding, police said, when it crossed the westbound lane and struck a large snowbank.

The car then spun around, flipped over the snowbank and fell approximately 12 feet to the ground, landing in the vard of a residence.

None of the teens was wearing seat belts. Police said it appeared the impact killed

Police said there was no evhol was involved. The road was dry at the time of the crash, they said.

Smith was a freshman at Telstar High School, and Tedford was a former student.

This week is school vacation week, but Telstar was open from 2 to 5 p.m. Monday, Supt. Dave Murphy said, and between 20 and 30 students and community members came to the school.

A substantial number of counselors and other support people were on hand to talk with them, he said.

"Additional support will also be available when the students return on Monday," said Murphy.

This is the second car crash tragedy to strike the school this year. In November, Telstar junior DeeDee Palmer of Andover died when her vehiidence at the scene that alco-

Bethel selectmen censure chairman of Appeals Board

In an unprecedented move last week, Bethel selectmen voted unanimously to formally censure Harry Faulkner, chairman of the town Board of Appeals.

Faulkner, however, was not removed from the Appeals Board, which he has served on since 1993, and chaired for most of that period.

Faulkner, who was present at the selectmen's meeting, said he would accept the censure, but he didn't think his actions warranted that level of rebuke.

"I don't think it's worthy of a censure," he told the selectmen, "but I would accept it quietly in the best interest of the town."

'Just cause' for removal The censure stemmed from comments Faulkner made to fellow board members during a meeting in early 2007.

The business of that meeting was an appeal requesting that the town require a formal "change of use" application for the Funky Red Barn bar and restaurant on Summer Street.

Faulkner, who had previously owned the business, recused himself from the mat-

But prior to the close of the hearing - and after the appellant, Mark Egeberg, and his attorney had left — Faulkner made derisive, sometimes profane comments about the appeal.

The comments were caught on a digital recorder that is

The Warden Service's Wildlife Crimes Investigation Division initiated the special investigation early last year, after it received numerous complaints from the public, hunters and law enforcement about alleged poaching activities they witnessed regarding one of the men.

In January, after months of investigation, WCID served four search warrants on five of the men's residences. Oxford County Assistant District Attorney Joe O'Connor

The unbearable heaviness of winter

Standing where her 2006 Buick had been parked the night before, Honey Bailey of Bethel points to the buckled crease (also visible above her) along what had been the ridge of a Quonset hut at Bailey's Outdoor Power in Bethel. At about 4 a.m. that morning the Baileys were awakened by a roar, and Timer Bailey (right) went out to find the hut's roof collapsed from the weight of rain-laden snow. The car was heavily damaged, but very little of the equipment stored in the rear of the 7- or 8-year-old metal structure was harmed. That morning the Bailey's sons, Joe and Jack (left), showed up to help clean things up. The Buick was insured, Honey said, but not the building itself. The Quonset hut was one of several Oxford County buildings damaged recently by their snow load, but The Citizen has received no reports of injuries or of occupied residences incurring serious damage.

SAD44 must replace both Telstar principals next year

SAD44 directors are pondering their options for leadership at Telstar high and middle schools, following the announcement of the retirement of both principals.

THS principal Ted Davis and TMS principal Russ Tornrose will retire at the end of this school year, Supt. Dave Murphy said.

Davis served many years in the position before retiring for the first time in 2000.

He returned last year after the departure of principal Sean Lambert.

Tornrose became TMS principal in 2004, after a period of time in which one principal oversaw both schools.

When this year's budget process gets underway, Murphy said, directors will need to decide how to structure administration at the schools.

With the state currently tightening its budget for next year, Murphy said he expects school districts will have to do the same. "To have principals at both schools, we need to figure out how to afford it," Murphy told the School Board last week. Murphy said the most qualified principal candidates usually concentrate on either high or middle school.

If the board chose to maintain a separate TMS principal, he said, directors would likely

HELP DRESS OUR VETS FOR WORK

To the Editor:

My mission as National Chaplain of the American Legion Auxiliary this year was to express, by word and action, our organization's founding principal of service to God and Country. We have attempted to promote and celebrate the diversity among people and faiths.

We have initiated several new programs this year in collaboration with outside organizations. One such program is The Maryland Center for Veterans Education and Training (MCVET), a nonprofit organization established to provide homeless veterans and other veterans in need with comprehensive services that will enable them to rejoin their communities as productive citizens.

I am gathering items that could be forwarded to this organization by way of men's and women's "professional" clothing for these veterans to have as they seek employment opportunities. For health reasons these items must be in good condition with either a dry cleaning or sales tag still attached.

Anyone wishing to assist us with contributions of clothing for this project and help these veterans is encouraged to drop them off at Brooks Bros. Inc. prior to March 15. Thank you.

SNOWWOMAN CELEBRATION

To the Editor:

We have scheduled the dedication and celebration of the World's Tallest SnowWoman to be on Friday, Feb. 29, at 10 a.m. at the base of the giant lady. The location of the SnowWoman is an empty lot at 37 Cross Street, Bethel — it is also considered to be on The Parkway, Bethel, Maine. All are invited.

One of the most vivid memories of the World's Tallest Snowman project was the way it brought so many facets of the community together. That has been one of the planning team's goals in this year's project as well. Give us a call, or just show up, if you would like to help during the next few weeks. Once the SnowWoman is done, we will have plenty of jobs for volunteers in the chamber office and our on-site Visitor Information booth provided by Schiavi Home Builders.

I submitted a long letter in last week's edition of the Bethel Citizen, listing many businesses and individuals to thank. There is always a danger in doing that that someone will inadvertently get overlooked or omitted. Each day, we have new volunteers stepping up to help, so we will wait until the project is complete before we print another long thank-you. If you have helped on the site, please make your way into the chamber office to let us know. I do need to publicly apologize to the town of Bethel for omitting them from last week's "thanks." The town crew, Scott Cole and the selectmen have been tremendously supportive throughout this entire project and our sincerest thanks are extended to

To the Editor:

Two people with East Bethel ties died earlier this month - one a "native," the other an individual who chose to live in East Bethel.

Jim Keith lived in Bethel Historical Society founder Eva Bean's old home and transformed it into a remarkable example of "adaptive reuse" of a historic structure. I first met Jim when he was working on one of the most important homes in the Bethel Historic District. He came asking for my advice, but, almost immediately, I sensed he knew much about historic preservation and his instincts about what should be done were precisely right on target. After that experience, I saw Jim around town frequently and always enjoyed our chats. He was certainly a remarkable person, as those who knew him best testified at his service. When I first heard of his illness, all I could think of was the truism, "life ain't fair" and "the truly good die young," but Jim made the best of his remaining time and set a noteworthy example for all us of courage and acceptance of one's fate with calmness and a positive attitude to the end of his life.

In Albert Foster's passing at age 87, I have lost one of the last vestiges of the East Bethel world of my childhood. Except for his service in World War II and several winters spent in a logging camp, Albert lived most of his life on the family farm established by his ancestor Eli Foster in 1823. Albert was one of the great "characters" of the neighborhood, who as long as his health permitted was a regular at the annual East Bethel Cemetery clean-up. Quiet and low-key, even taciturn, he enjoyed talking once one got past his initial reserve. I always loved hearing his stories and learning about the Foster farm, which has such a rich history. In fact, when Tom Hubka was doing the research for his award-winning book, "Big House, Little House, Back House, Barn: The Connected Farm Buildings of New England," published by the University Press of New England in 1984, I took him to meet Albert. Right away, this outsider and academic, who had grown up in New Jersey, realized what a "treasure" Albert was. Hubka spent many hours with Albert and learned a great deal about farming in Maine and its farm buildings. As an indication of the high regard in which he held Albert, a photo of the Foster barn, milk house and grain shed is included in the book (page 64). Each time I passed the Foster farm, usually at night following a Grange meeting or supper at East Bethel, I always marveled that Albert was still there. His lights were still on after all these years. It will be hard to drive by the farm now and see it in total darkness.

Both Jim and Albert will be buried in East Bethel Cemetery in the spring. The graveyard there, along with its chaste simple church, has always been one of my favorite sites in the world since it represents so many memories. It was here that during the annual clean-up each May, I heard the older men recall as we moved around the graves their numerous memories of particular people. This was the place where I "helped" Sexton John Irvine with the care of the cemetery and learned all kinds of things as he dug the graves and dealt with the families involved in the burials. At the East Bethel School, the big event each year was Memorial Day exercises at the cemetery with the playing of "Taps" and the firing volley, when after the veterans left we rushed in to collect the expended shells for souvenirs. When I was older, I mowed grass in the cemetery and assisted my father, who succeeded John Irvine as sexton, in digging graves. In this way, I came to know even more clearly cemeteries as places of history and gained important insights into life's processes and phases. I also became aware of those who left East Bethel and chose to be buried there after a life spent in distant places. During my university years, the cemetery and the church were often included as destinations in my walks to reflect on life and my ties to the place where I had grown up. I even wrote a history of the church for my Maine history course. When I returned to Bethel in the 1970s, I served for a time as treasurer of the cemetery and still head the governing body for the church, where memorial services for my parents were held. As I continue to research all kinds of history, I keep coming back to East Bethel as I find outstanding Civil War soldiers and other remarkable individuals resting in the cemetery. To some, growing up as I did in this closely knit farming community with lots of supportive adults, East Bethel seemed like the "center of things." Others might find this a "bit of a stretch." In any case, with the loss of these two "East Bethelites," I will be able to feel perhaps a little better as I reflect upon their departure from this life knowing that their final resting place is in a bit of earth that has for me so much meaning.

GETTING THAT TAX REBATE CHECK

To the Editor:

How do you get a tax rebate check? Individuals must file a 2007 tax return showing at least $3,000 in qualifying income in order to receive a rebate check. Even individuals who might not otherwise be required to file a 2007 tax return will need to file a return this year in order to receive the rebate. The IRS will use information on the tax return to determine eligibility and calculate the amount of the rebates.

How much will you get? The minimum amount of any rebate check mailed will be $300 and will range to a maximum of $1,800, depending on the individual's earned income and family size. Anyone who shows at least $3,000 in qualifying income on their 2007 tax return qualifies for a flat rebate of $300 if single or $600 if married filing jointly, even if they don't owe income tax.

If your 2007 federal tax liability is between $300 and $600 and you're single, your rebate will be equal to what you paid in tax, but no more than $600. If your 2007 federal tax liability is between $600 and $1,200 and you're married, your rebate will be equal to what you paid in tax, but no more than $1,200. Individuals receiving a rebate of any amount will receive an additional $300 for each child that is eligible for the child tax credit in 2008, up to a maximum of two children.

Higher-income earners won't receive rebates. The rebates — including the $300 rebate for kids — start to shrink when your adjusted gross income hits $75,000 (single) or $150,000 (married). Adjusted gross income includes income from all sources, but before most deductions and exemptions have been subtracted.

What is qualifying income? The economic stimulus law contains a special provision allowing Social Security recipients and recipients of certain veterans' benefits and certain Railroad Retirement benefits to count those benefits toward the qualifying income requirement of $3,000 and thereby qualify for the tax rebate.

When will the checks be mailed? The Treasury Department has stated that the IRS will begin mailing the rebate checks in early May and estimates it should take about 10 weeks for all checks to be mailed.

Persons who fail to file their 2007 tax returns by April 25, 2008 and request a filing extension may not receive a rebate check until as late as December.

Ready to file that return? Contact your tax professional for assistance in filing your return or to obtain forms. You may also download blank forms from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

A DIFFERENT TAKE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

To the Editor:

Julia Reuter of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Norway recently wrote in a letter to The Bethel Citizen that Christian Science is not Scientology, which is absolutely correct. But is she correct in saying that "Christian Science is a Christian, Bible-based religion, not a cult"? If it is indeed Christian and Bible-based, let's compare what the Bible says about the basic, crucial Christian tenets with what Christian Science teaches about them. The Bible teaches that God is Triune: one God in three Persons, Father, Son and Holy Spirit. He is the Creator of the universe and desires a personal relationship and fellowship with us. God is Love and He does not violate the free will of man. C.S. (Christian Science) teaches that God is an impersonal Principle. There is God and God only and all matter is nothing but an illusion. The Bible teaches that Jesus is the second Person of the Trinity, the Son of God and the Son of man, fully God and fully man. He was born of a virgin and walked the earth as a man, delivering and healing those who were oppressed of the devil and preaching the Kingdom. He suffered and died on the cross to pay for our sins. He resurrected from the dead, demonstrating authority over all things, even death. He bodily ascended to Heaven and will physically return to judge the world and establish the Kingdom of God. Salvation comes only from personally repenting and believing in one's heart in His sacrificial death as payment for one's sins. C.S. teaches that Jesus isn't God, didn't suffer and die on the cross to pay for our sins, didn't resurrect from the dead and He isn't physically returning to Earth. The Bible teaches that the Holy Spirit is the third Person of the Trinity. He is God and He dwells in the believer to comfort, teach and guide him or her. He is a person and not some impersonal "force," such as in Star Wars. C.S. teaches that the Holy Spirit is an impersonal force and is named as literally being the teaching of Christian Science. As previously mentioned, the Bible teaches that salvation comes only from personally repenting and believing in one's heart in Jesus' sacrificial death as payment for one's sins while C.S. teaches that all of mankind is already saved. Evil and sin doesn't exist. Concerning life after Death, the Bible teaches that believers spend eternity with Jesus while the lost will suffer an eternity in Hell, tormented by separation from God. C.S. teaches that sickness and death doesn't really exist, they are merely illusions. It also teaches that Heaven and Hell are nothing but states of mind.

Given the vast differences between the teachings of the Bible and the teachings of Christian Science, it's interesting that a conclusion can be made that Christian Science is a Christian, Bible-based religion and not a cult.

Ballots on liquor question available

NEWRY— Absentee ballots are available at the Newry Town Office for the town vote on the liquor-license question. There will be a secret ballot vote at the Town Meeting March 3 on two questions: whether to authorize the state to permit the operation of state liquor stores and agency liquor stores on days other than Sundays; and whether to allow such operation on Sundays. A public hearing on the issue Tuesday drew only John Amann of the Barking Dawg, who requested the ballot questions, and Doug and Deb Webster of the Bear River Trading Post, whom town officials said are also interested in applying for a license, if the question is approved. If voters give the OK, the responsibility for a decision is expected to go to the Secretary of State. Town officials were not certain whether only one business in the town could sell liquor. The said they believe population would be considered, but they wondered if seasonal population would be a factor.

NORWAY-Grover Gundrilling of Norway and Bethel has pledged $20,000 to the Roberts Farm Preserve project of the Western Foothills Land Trust, "While the response from the community to the Preserve has been heartening, the Grover Gundrilling pledge is the largest single contribution WFLT has received to date from any source. The Appeals Board ultimately rejected the appeal and Egeberg took the matter to Oxford County Superior Court.

Last month the court ruled on the matter, rejecting Egeberg's appeal and upholding the decisions of the town Planning and Appeals boards,

But in his ruling, Justice Robert Crowley chastised the behavior of the Appeals Board chairman.

Crowley characterized Faulkner's behavior "completely intolerable," and warned: "that in almost any other circumstances the actions by Faulkner, or any similar actions by another public official, would certainly warrant a remand and/or reversal for blatantly violating an applicant's due process rights.'

"I was tasked to talk to the town lawyer and see if there were reasonable grounds for removal or censure, or something less than that, including no action," Cole said.

According to the town attorney, there was "just cause" to remove Faulkner from the Appeals Board, Cole told the selectmen.

Board Chairman Stan Howe stressed the seriousness of the situation.

"We do have to make some sort of acknowledgement, because the judge was quite firm in what he said," Howe

"He didn't consider what you said to have a bearing on the case," Howe told Faulkner,

"but it put the town in a bad light, and it's something I think we have to acknowledge in some way, at least in my point of view. It's very sad that we did get put in a bad light,"

Speaking in his own defense, Faulkner said that at the time he made the comments he thought the appeal hearing had been concluded, and the recorder was no longer run-

The middle school has seen a recent drop in enrollment. The current population count is 224, compared to 275 two years ago, Murphy said.

THS enrollment has remained steady, at about 300, for the past five or six years, he said.

Woodstock director Marcel Polak asked Murphy for a report detailing the history of administration at the schools to aid directors in making a decision.

Andover director Sid Pew also asked for figures on elementary enrollments.

Charges

Court appearances are tentatively scheduled for April. The summonses include night hunting, killing multiple deer, hunting turkey during closed season, possession of stolen fur, possession of stolen traps, and theft of traps.

"What these men did through their actions is insult the law-abiding hunters of this state who respect the regulations that are in place to manage Maine's wildlife population," said Acting Warden Service Colonel Gregg Sanborn. "We appreciate the public's input in helping us stop this activity."

Kyle A. Morgan, 20, of 142 Hill Street, South Paris, was issued 21 summonses, all of which are Class D misdemeanors according to Title 12 of the State of Maine Inland Fisheries and Wildlife laws.

If found in violation of the law, the court could impose a sentence of at least three days in jail for the first offense and not less than 10 days for each succeeding offense, and impose a fine of not less than $1,000 for each violation.

Morgan would automatically lose his state hunting license if he is found guilty.

The summonses issued to Morgan for alleged activity between Oct. 11 and Nov. 25, 2007 are: six counts of night hunting; four counts of night hunting that resulted in the killing of deer; two counts of night hunting that resulted in the wounding of deer; two counts of hunting deer after having killed one; three counts of hunting turkey during closed season; one count of exceeding the limit in the killing of deer; one count of theft and the possession of stolen fur; one count of theft and the possession of stolen traps; and one count of theft of traps.

The other men who were issued summonses, and the alleged violations, are as fol-

He was also issued summonses of one count of baiting deer, one count of theft and possession of stolen traps; and one count disturbing traps of another person. All are Class E misdemeanors, which if found guilty is subject to up to 30 days in jail and a $1,000 fine. Walker is Morgan's uncle.

Jonathan Morgan, 48, of 8 Hayes Road, Norway: one count of possession of antlerless deer, a Class D misdemeanor, and one count of possession of an unregistered deer, a Class E misdemeanor. Jonathan Morgan is Kyle Morgan's father.

Matthew Cole, 24, of 487 Cushman Road, Bryant Pond: three counts of exceeding the limit in the killing of deer, a Class D misdemeanor; one count of night hunting, a Class D misdemeanor; and one count of possession of an unregistered deer, a Class E misdemeanor. Cole is Kyle Morgan's cousin.

James Campbell, 20, of 21 Churchill Road, Woodstock: one count of trapping with! out a license; one count of receiving stolen traps; and one count of baiting deer, all Class E misdemeanors. Campbell is Kyle Morgan's cousin.

Matthew Walker, 23, Walkers Mills Road, Bethel: one count of possession of a deer killed at night, a Class D misdemeanor; and one count of false registration of a deer, a Class E misdemeanor.

Raymond Walker, 64, 104 Alpine Street, Norway: one count of false registration of a deer, a Class E misdemeanor.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

One thing I have been very good at most of my life is sleeping. I would go so far as to say I was the Queen of Sleep, the Sultaness of Slumber, the Mistress of Morpheus. I'm sure you catch my drift.

Anyway, there once was a time when I would fall asleep almost immediately upon resting my head on the pillow. Bingo, out like a light. Once I was out, boy, was I out! And I really enjoyed it too! I enjoyed it so much I would try to wake myself up just so I could experience the pleasure of falling asleep again. I enjoyed it so much I had to force myself into wakefulness in the morning.

That was then, this is now and sleep and I have a completely different relationship. I know that as the body ages less sleep is required, but I don't believe that I've reached that age yet. Maybe after people retire from the working world and their lives are less regimented they need less sleep, but that time is at least ten years away for me.

It's not like I'm not tired when I go to bed because I am. I'm darn tired in fact and have usually spent the last hour or so trying to prevent myself from nodding off while I'm trying to watch television or read a book.

It amazes me that I have to fight to stay awake to enjoy that small part of the evening after the chores are done, but when I do go to bed sleep is as elusive as winning the lottery.

And what does a person do when they can't fall asleep? They think; that's what they do. My mind lights up like a pinball machine with bright lights and bells going off. I think about all of the should haves, could haves, would haves, can I's, will I's and a few maybe I will's thrown in just for kicks.

A typical night of tossing and turning may start out by finding a comfortable position and that wonderful feeling of warmth and drifting off and then "tilt", I start wondering if I shut off everything that needed shutting off. I'll retrace my final tasks of the evening in my mind until I have convinced myself that all is well.

That should do it, with my mind at ease about everything being under control I should start to drift again, but then I think it has been quite a while since I've heard the furnace kick on and doesn't it feel like it's getting colder.

Convinced that the furnace

Sleepless in South Paris

has either died or run out of oil I'll attempt to recall when the last oil delivery was. If it was fairly recent then I'll feel pretty sure that the furnace did indeed gasp its last breath. Or the fuel tank could have burst and the basement is flooded with oil and what if that causes an explosion? From that unpleasant thought I try to figure out how I would get my crippled husband out of the burning house.

Once I've figured out how to save Henry, and I can't forget the cats either of course, I'll wonder, if time allows, what else I should save? I'll do a mental inventory of everything we own. Forget the appliances because they're too heavy and the insurance will replace them, but my Santa Claus collection is not easily replaced.

After much tossing and turning while these thoughts are bombarding my brain, I realize that the rattling I hear in the pipes means that the furnace is running just fine and I have let my imagination bring me to full wakefulness.

I check the clock and an hour and a half has passed without a wink of sleep, but I figure I can still get a good six hours sleep if I can fall asleep right then. All is well; I know the furnace is running the way it's supposed to and I'm pretty sure everything is shut off and my morning clothes are ready, because I put a load of laundry in the washer that very evening. This is the wrong thing to think about because now I can't remember if I put the clothes in the dryer. This thought, unfortunately, forces me out of the warm bed to make sure the clothes are dry.

Once I've folded a few of the clothes and gone to the bathroom and back to bed I figure I can still get five hours of sleep and that should be enough. Only now I think about the fact that I have a column due the next day and I haven't even given it a thought let alone come up with an idea. I mull this over for a while and one of two things will happen. I will think of something that will make a good column that I won't remember in the morning or I will think of something brilliant for a column and I will remember it in the morning only to realize that it is one of the dumbest things I have ever thought of.

Needless to say, after a night like this, of which I am having way too many, I'm not in very good shape in the morning. My mind is sluggish and I feel like I could fall asleep on my feet. I know I won't let that happen because I have too much control, but the way I see it...22222222222222.

Friday, Feb. 15

At 6:42 a.m. Sheriff Wayne Gallant came upon a vehicle parked on the side of the road, covered in snow, in front of a South Main Street residence in Bryant Pond. A long driveway had not yet been cleared, and only one set of footprints led in one direction to the house, so a welfare check was done. After preliminary investigation evidence was obtained to establish probable cause for a search warrant for illegal activities. Charges were pending.

FORMER BETHEL OFFICER AIDS IN LARGE DRUG BUST IN BRIDGTON-Former Bethel police officer Donald "Mac" McCormick (right), now with the Bridgton PD, played a key role in the recent investigation of a drug trafficking case in that town, according to BPD Chief Dave Lyons. The Bridgton PD, in cooperation with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, conducted a joint investigation into a significant prescription drug diversion case. Marc Lev, 47, of Harrison was arrested on numerous charges of acquiring drugs by deception, impersonating a public servant, (a CIA agent, police officer and a doctor) forgery, and aggravated trafficking. A search of Lev's home resulted in the confiscation of thousands of prescription narcotic pills, which included a large quantity of liquid morphine, liquid Demerol, and a large amount of unlawful hypodermic needles. Evidence indicates that the bulk of the unlawfully acquired drugs occurred in other states, Lyons said. Lev lived in Florida for a number of years and most, if not all of the confiscated and controlled drugs came from there. In the short time Lev has lived in Maine, said Lyons, he was traced by the state's prescription monitoring system and within a few months identified as a person of interest. Bridgton police became interested in this case three weeks earlier, when McCormick and Officer Brad Gaumont (left) received a tip regarding Lev's activities. "Due to Officer McCormick and Gaumont's fast and thorough investigation our department was able to establish a pattern of criminal activity early on. This case soon mushroomed into a very significant and involved matter. Officers McCormick and Gaumont decided to call the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration for assistance as the case involved others states and necessitated a higher level of expertise in handling this inordinate quantity of drugs." The investigation is ongoing and had led officers to other states where Lev has been. Among the items seized was a fully-loaded semi automatic handgun, a taser stun gun, disabling chemical agents, and computers. The USDEA has now taken the case over. Lev was bailed, and is due to appear in Bridgton District Court May 27.

BBQ Bob's Real Pit BBQ for Bethel's February vacationers

Drive by the Mayville domain of Good Food Store and Irving this week and you will probably see white smoke from Bob's barbeque pit floating over the snowbanks. Bob says that he has years of winter cooking outdoors behind him. When he was set up in Portland some people wondered whether he was "allowed to do that" but his neighbors were not the Exchange Street type and they never complained just enjoyed his food. Saturday business seemed busier than usual at the Good Food Store and at Bob's. In the now hidden parking lot, Massachusetts plates outnumbered Maine plates two to one.

Heritage Day opened vacation week

Bethel Historical Society's annual Heritage Day program attracted two types of vintages people and artifacts. Two traditionally popular events on the agenda were appraising your treasures by Jay Bos- chetti and sampling homemade Indian pudding served by Annie Hastings in the Mason House winter kitchen. For the right touch, pudding was kept warm in a pot hanging over the fire. The program also included a demonstration of spinning and homespun weaving, tours of the Mason House and a chance to see some of the excellent exhibits in the Robinson House that tell a graphic story of Bethel's history. This winter's feature exhibit tells the Androscoggin River story. This exhibit is on the ground floor of the building and covers a wide range of discoveries about our "ole Man river."

Show and tell with Jay Boschetti has turned out to be a very popular event and last Saturday was no exception. There were three pieces of special interest on this occasion; one was a pierced Vienna porcelain compote and under plate; second was a campy 1950s TV lamp (which brought out a comment or two about the days when you were told that you needed a light to watch TV so you wouldn't hurt your eyes); and the third very special item was an exceptionally fine, glass-cased mantel clock that Jay judged to be worth about $1,500. The clock was probably made around 1925 (the art nouveau period) and its pendulum weight was a setting of two vertical sideby-side vials of mercury. Mr. Boschetti owns Steam Mill Antiques where he has at least 20 different galleries of collect-

Gould Academy's letter to Floridians

The academy's website now has a page about its main strategic plan called Vision 2016. This month Head of School Dan Kunkle sent letters to Gould alumni living or wintering in Florida and who attend an annual reunion luncheon in Venice, Fla., in March. Mr. Kunkle opened his letter by saying, "The Gould Board of Trustees, in collaboration with our faculty, students, alumni, and parents, has set forth a long-range vision for the school: Gould Academy will be recognized as one of the best small boarding schools in the nation within ten years. The plan for achieving this vision involves enhancing academic and co-curricular programs, revitalizing campus facilities, improving environmental sustainability, and strengthening the Academy's endowment and financial structure. This is a time of unprecedented ambition at Gould and we need your guidance and perspective to move forward successfully.'

The letter goes on to invite those at the luncheon to participate in a discussion regarding a capital campaign to address the school's needs.

Kathy and I have enjoyed attending the Venice luncheon in the past and regret missing it this year. However, as this plan unfolds, it would seem to be of tremendous interest to residents of Bethel.

Gould class to visit China, the academy has added a "Gould in China" blog to its website www.gouldacademy.org. According to its website, the class will visit three Chinese secondary level schools while on this tour: one is a private school in Beijing, the Chengdu Experimental Foreign Languages School and the Shenzhen Senior High School. This trip will be taken during February and the first part of March.

Chasing W.W. Kilgore Besides buying the Poplar Tavern in 1902, it seems that Mr. Kilgore also opened the Maple Inn on Main Street in Bethel after expanding and remodeling the house, which stood where the Sudbury Inn is today. Thanks to Rosalind Chapman's research on Main Street properties in 1978 for the Bethel Historical Society, it is known that "after the Bethel Inn was built in 1913, Mr. Kilgore hired Smith and Rumery to enlarge the building" on this lot to its present (1978) size. (However, in the 1920s fire destroyed much of Kilgore's inn after he had sold it. Whether today's Sud-headed west to Wisconsin where he taught school, married and later become school principal. Before returning to Newry in 1902 to buy the Poplar Tavern, he was superintendent of schools in Willmar, Minn. In Newry, he was elected selectman in 1911 and 1912 just before coming to Bethel to start Maple Inn. When he died in 1948, he was Newry's oldest resident and was buried in the Powers Cemetery.

Snow Woman Grows

Monday afternoon Snow Woman was nine steps high with the forms set on level 10. One morning I was able to capture (save) a prize webcam shot of snow falling from the clamshell bucket. George Gershwin wrote a song that might be appropriate for the occasion — "I'll Build A Stairway To Paradise." Lyrics from the chorus go "I'll build a stairway to Paradise, With a new step everyday. I'm going to get there at any price; Stand aside, I'm on my way. ... Shoes! Go on and carry me there." As a musical number in a movie, it was sung in "An American In Paris," about 1951 and was shown in the Bethel Theater the same year.

Other News

A few days ago snow overload caused a Quonset type of garage at Bailey's Outdoor Power in South Bethel to collapse. Major victim was the Bailey's car that was in the garage. Most of the garden tractors, snow blowers, etc. had been stored near the building's sides and appeared to be used in making snow and running ski lifts. The report noted that Aspen Skiing Co. offsets 100 percent of its energy with wind power and makes snow with a speck of dust to lessen the water and energy used.

Time Magazine on Feb. 18 ran an article titled, "How Green Is Your Mountain." One of the target items was energy

Lin Chapman

Today is Sunday and the beginning of February vacation. It has started out on a sad note for three families from the area. I would like to extend sympathies to the families of the three young men that died in the motor vehicle accident in Shelburne, N.H., on Feb. 16. It is a tragedy that no one should have to deal with.

In other news, Feb. 21 is our son Chris' birthday. Happy Birthday, Chris.

Raymond Chapman celebrated his 80th birthday Saturday, Feb. 9, with about 100 friends and family present. Ernest Angevine gave a speech and a toast. Sam Chapman and Jew-. ell Clark provided entertainment for the group.

My brother, Steve McLain, had a little help from his son, Brad, with shoveling off the roof. Brad has been quite busy trying to keep up with all the plowing in the area since he works for Jack Cross. They wanted to get as much snow and ice off the roof before the next storm hit.

Hugh and I decided to head for Bethel last Saturday. Our first stop was for lunch at the Serendipity Café (my favorite BLT) and then up to Village Sweets to say hello to Jill. Of course, we had to pick up a couple of items. I wanted to get to the shop the other day to pick up some of the mints that Hugh enjoys, but wasn't quite going to make it. When Lois Ruff, who works with me at Adult Ed, said she was headed that way, I enlisted her aid in purchasing the candy. All she had to do was go in and tell Jill that she needed to pick up some of the mints that Hugh likes and Jill knew just what she was talking about.

We then headed to the Bethel Historical Society's 34th Annual Heritage Day. First stop there was the Gift Shop in the Robinson House where we picked up a new book. This book, "Trouble on the Tracks: Grand Trunk Railway of New England Tragedies," is about the many accidents that have happened on this railroad line. We also ran into a couple, Robert and Debra Withee, who belong to the Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association. They had come up from South Paris with a group of about eight people. Jay Boschetti, who is a local antique dealer, was there to do appraisals for anyone who brought in an antique. We took a couple of things and got to see some things that other people brought in. Norm Buttrick and Cathy McGuire arrived shortly after we did. Then the four of us headed over to the Moses Mason House where we sampled the Indian pudding, looked around the house and checked out the stencils on the wall. Amy Davis and Annie Hastings were dishing out the pudding and Al Cressy, who is the society's president, was also there.

Lorrie Hoeh On Tuesday last week 11 turkeys showed up, then on Valentine's Day there were 14, and the latest group that visited topped out at 21! That turkey fricassee is sounding better and better, so Mike will have to get a turkey permit this spring.

Last Wednesday we had a 10-inch snowfall, followed by about an inch of ice on top, owing to the freezing rain. The end of the driveway was an awful mess, with huge, hard clumps of frozen snow that required a pickaxe to break up so that it could be blown

Then on President's Day, there was yucky freezing rain and more rain, certainly putting the kibosh on a lot of skiing plans.

Well, there were perfect conditions for the Class A middle school freestyle cross-country skiing finals Thursday at the Bethel Inn, and on Saturday for the Class A classical skiing . finals at Black Mountain. We are proud to report that two of our granddaughters, Molly Siegel of Bethel, and Louisa Stancioff of Chesterville, finished in the top ten in both Another beautiful day dawned on Sunday for the annual Flying Moose Classic race, which is sponsored by the Bethel Outing Club. Mike and I worked at registration, and there were more than 100 skiers who signed up! Skiers of all ages from lollipop up to senior citizens could choose to race or just tour. Most raced, of course, but a good time was had by all on the beautifully groomed race course which started at the Gould Field House, continued on the Gould skiing range, and then finished on the Bethel Inn course.

'We were kept busy for an hour and a half by the eager skiers who were thrilled at the opportunity to ski on really good snow. The past five or six years have been less than wonderful for skinny skis.

Our Boston family, Kate and Ken Griffin and their younger son Robbie, arrived for a few days' stay on Sunday. Older son Owen is in Milan, Italy, as a Rotary exchange student, and was missed. The Stancioffs of Chesterville and the Siegels of Albany Township, along with Kirk's father, Ed, of Sun Valley, Idaho, came later in the day to visit and share supper. It's always a good time when family gets together.

The weather report is for a gradual return to seasonal temperatures, and, yes, more snow in the form of flurries. We just hope that there is not a substantial addition in the near future to the 120 inches of white stuff we've already had.

Thoughts, musings, and news would be welcome. dhoeh@megalink.net;

Wayne Hakala Saturday evening I was told that I better behave

and keep the column up to date. Don't be going off anywhere's and forgetting to write. And just because of a wicked good visit with my buddy "Tater", AKA "Spud" I have enough bull to float an aircraft carrier clear of any ocean.

Actually, Anita and I were invited to our good friend's 50th birthday party. And of course Tater and Pat were there too. Bill just had to reach that mile marker of 50 and was given a tremendous amount of items to remind him of hitting the big Five O. I think Bill had more fun having his grandson help him with the wrapping. And, God help the little tyke, as he is taking right after his grandfather hook, line and sinker. Bob was there to wish his best buddy all the great things that go along with being 50. Watch out Bob, as you will be there in a few months, And you do know about payback! Saturday morning, brother Stephen called and said he was on the way up with a load of tree length. Had to move the vehicles and wish we didn't have as much snow. Space is getting limited. Either I have to get real busy cutting up firewood or not plant part of the garden as there are nine cords in the spot. Really the garden will benefit from the saw chips and bark. Time I till all that in to the ground and feed some good compost to it, the earth will explode with more and bigger tomatoes. And I can hear Tater cussing out the compost. And even more with me tilling it in with the big Gravely.

I don't know about everyone else, but I'm ready to plant peas. Even cast a fly or two. But this snow has to stop coming so fast. All the towns and state are hurting on the salt supplies and it makes for difficult driving at times. Even with the short supply of salt our town crew has given that extra effort to make our roads safer. They are to be commended for their efforts. And to be sure I have heard of several very nice comments made by our citizens. To be sure some parts of the roads aren't that great, but sunshine doesn't hit those spots, and some citizens are to be reminded not to push snow across the roadways,

I was the puppy sitter today. Ray and Noreen had to go to Cannon Mountain to watch their #1 grandson take his skiing lesson. Nick is three and handling the skis like a pro. Ray had the camera going and really captured some nice footage of Nick skiing. Ray and Noreen were very proud of Nick's ability on the slopes. But I had the most fun with the puppies. We would rest awhile and then go and do the business. Then it was back in, have a goody and water. Curl up for a bit and back out for more exercise and business. We walked back and forth a number of times the length of the driveway. At least Maggie and Andy did with some encouragement. Buster was off hell bent for election as usual. Buster did like crawling and scratching his way to the top of snow piles. He really could look down on us and say he was the "King of the Moun-

We have had a pair of cardinals feeding from the feeders. They are regulars and very happy without the blasted turkeys. When the turkeys were coming in, the little birds weren't using the feeders. We are much happier with the small birds.

Saturday, Anita took me to lunch at the Northland in Berlin. And I'm telling you that I had the best piece of fresh strawberry pie since the last one. Course the last one was a few months back. It was so good. And then it was off to get what Anita needed. Such is life! We did stop in and compare plasma televisions. The more I read and look, the more confused I get. One I had in mind is out of stock and likely not to be made any more. Technology is getting in my way. Guess we will have to wait a while longer and watch the Red Sox without the advantage of Plasma-HD-LCD-720-1080p or whatever. But to be sure the Sox start playing the 29th. Be there or be square. I'm sure the Daytona would have looked much better today in them other modes too. But puppies and I had a good time. At least the three of them shared my lap most of

I was thinking the other day of sap season and more snow discouraged that thought. I think we may have to think of a new system this year. Got any good ideas? Tater did have one good thought though. I could trick my brother into tapping and gathering the sap while I do the boiling. I think that could work. Hmmmmm-

Just a little food for thought before I close tonight, Two things that can reduce your taxes a great deal are "Recycling and not making more work for the road crews.'

Think about it. Keep smil-

Recently I talked to Fran Kerchner from Wellesley, Mass. She had just returned from visiting her daughter, Beth, who is working in Ecuagor. While there they traveled to the Equator Line so that Fran could balance an egg at a special tourist area. She did not; but a man in the group they traveled with did. Fran told me she plans to go back and try the balancing act again. On Saturday, the 16th, Karlene Bachelder celebrated her 80th birthday at the Bear River Grange Hall. Her daughter, Claire Romano from Sanford, made all the arrangements and provided all the food. A very pretty cake highlighted the delicious meal. Many, many family members were in attendance as well as lots of her friends and neighbors. Her son, Aaron, from North Carolina came the furthest distance to be with his mother and brother and sisters. Brent and Peter Haraty were here from Rhode Island. Karlene received many cards and wore a lovely birthday head-

The next day, Karlene and family members who stayed over or lived in the area had lunch at the Cinnamon Stick Café, Gilberte Seeley attended both occasions.

This week on the 20th my son has a birthday. We decided to celebrate on Sunday due to reports of storms and possible flooding that might hamper driving on Wednesday. If I can drive to Bethel on the 20th, then we will dine out.

The Bear River Trading Post is now featuring homemade bread from No View Farm, located in South Rumford. This bread is delivered twice a week and is organic and made from local ingredients. There are different varieties of breads each week.

Upton

Laurie Brown The word "Umbagog" is derived from the Abanaki word "Melecite," which means "dwelling place of moose." Even today it seems appropriately named. The creatures survive on private land, public land, and land owned by wildlife refuges equally well. When people build trails in the woods for their own use, the moose take full advantage of them. Trails facilitate their treks and their antlers get caught in wayward, thick branches. So, we all harmoniously co-inhabit our gorgeous forests.

I'm glad New Hampshire folks have seen no need to change the name of the "pond" we share with them. Their signs still say "Umbagog Lake." Several people on this side of the state line apparently think "Lake Umbagog" has a more sophisticated sound to Obviously, I have received no newsy tidbits from folks. You were pre-warned what would happen in such cases. For your sakes, I hope I have some events to share in next week's column.

The use of abbreviations and initials niggles at me.

"ATM" is short for "automated teller machine." Saying "ATM machine" is rather redundant, no? Same with "vin" and "pin"; why do we bother trying to shorten terms?

Unbeknownst to Willie, I stopped by to visit him a couple times last week. His only response was a decrease in the volume of his snoring. I hope he'll relax his exercising this week enough to at least grace me with his presence at our luau next Saturday. I hear there are folks who want to meet him.

Have a great week. God

West Paris

Joyce Lamb More and more snow. Frank Perham plows often. There is very little room to pile up much more. My sand is about gone, so I will need to visit the town pile for a refill. Putting down a layer of sand doesn't help for long for the sun starts the water running over the sand and then that all freezes over. All then becomes a sheet of ice. The back walk never does get any sun and has built up solid to a height of about a foot. The sides of the narrow walk are six or seven feet tall. A thick layer of ice was hanging over the back door and Dana Newell chopped some of it off. He then sanded the drive heavily. A very good neighbor.

My son-in-law works on small engines and boats and motorcycles and now is repairing some lawnmowers. So I asked him to find me a selfpropelled, electric-start lawnmower. And this is in the middle of snowblower time!

At the West Paris Universalist Church on Feb. 24 the Rev. Bob Wolf will be the speaker at 9 a.m. Jim Burke is organist. All are welcome. A coffee hour follows.

Marta Clements drove with Nancy Farmer and Virginia Cole to Florida where she stayed for a week and enjoyed the warmer weather. She even swam in the Gulf. She helped drive them down and then flew home. What a mess to return to!

No one is moving about to shop or visit. Most have hibernated for the winter. There is very little going on. I have made it to the library a few by Clem Worcester Jalentine's Day likely appeared to many in the area as quite unloving as another snow, sleet and rainstorm had just passed through the area. Roads were reported to be a mess with black ice, white ice and any color ice you could imagine. A Midwest Price chip truck ran off the road near Hanover Cemetery and later in the day about one mile up the road a SUV slid around and bounced off the guard rail. There were no reports of injuries. School vacation is this week so be especially watchful of children out around the big snowbanks everywhere. We do not know if youngsters like to make snow tunnels in the big banks, but it is a good idea to keep that possibility in mind. Also for snowmobilers and hikers, it is thought that the ice in the Androscoggin River is not very solid with open places around the edges.

When confronted with the prospect of shoveling off a roof one old fellow said, "Let's see what it will take." Not a very good idea unless you want a horse and sleigh rides. The squashed building.

Averill Hello readers, what a wild weekend of weather we had, ice, slush, rain and snow! We went out snowmobiling on Monday afternoon after all the messy weather, and came across a mother moose and a young one in the trail. They walked along the trail for probably a quarter mile, and the mother fell down three times, because it was slippery for her too. It was sad to see. They have been up my way since the end of January. We have seen them a couple of times now. I realize that this is a little late of a notice, but I just read the posters on Tuesday announcing that there will be a Winter Carnival of activities this Saturday in Andover, at the lower Grimaldi field. Events start at 9 a.m., and go most of the day with ski races, snowshoe races, Beano, and horse rides are $2 per person. Saturday is also the annual

On Sunday, Sarah Averill and Katie Mills went to Portland to catch the Amtrak train to Boston for a high school musical show. Their Uncle Roger and Aunt Lucy Mills and 18 of their cousins accompanied them. Before the show, they walked around and took in the sights of the city (which was snowless, by the way!) After returning back to Portland, they stayed at Old Orchard Beach for the night at Katie's Aunt Melanie's motel. They did some swimming, not in the ocean, before returning back home to the big town of Andover.

Congratulations to Andover's Brianne Bailey on her great job at the Mountain Valley Ski Championships, held at Black Mountain, At last Saturday's cross-country race, she finished first, (for Telstar) and at the second half of the event, held on Friday, Feb. 15, she placed second.

Sympathy is extended to John and Agnes Foster for the loss of his Uncle Albert Foster on Feb. 10. Albert served his country during WWII, residing in East Bethel on his return, working on the farm. A funeral service was held at the Greenleaf Funeral Home in Bethel, on Friday Feb. 15.

Joan Stinson-Carney

Sorry about week's last missing column. It is floataround ing out there somewhere in cyberspace. I hope you all had a Happy Valentine's Day.

The East Andover Community Club held its February meeting at the Calvary Church, Donna Gagne and Marge Stinson were the hostesses. We played the game Sorry, and guess who was the only one who didn't end up with a prize, yup me!

A couple weeks ago my seven-year-old neighbor, Jeff Stetson, had the time of his life snowboarding at Sunday River. His aunt, Karen Thurston, said he had so much fun that he wouldn't even stop for lunch. I'm glad somebody is enjoying all the snow we have had this year!

The Andover road crew is doing a great job of keeping our roads fit to travel on. Last Friday I had to go to Rumford, and what a difference between Andover and Rumford roads.

I want to again thank our neighbors, Wanda and Pete Coolidge, for their help in keeping our driveway clear. It's a great comfort to me to know that in case of an emergency help can get to us.

On Saturday, Feb. 23, the Recreation Committee is holding a winter carnival. There will be cross-country skiing, snowshoe races, ice skating and an all-day bonfire. Plenty of food will be for sale, and then there will be a dance in the evening. Registration for participating in all events will start at 8 a,m. You can call Paul Hutchins for more information (392-4651).

Please help Ruby Kulpa and the American Cancer Society by buying raffle tickets on the beautiful quilt Ruby made. Tickets are in the local stores, and at the library.

Starting on Friday, Feb. 29, there will be an evening exercise class. It will start at 6:30 p.m. at the Town Hall, Everyone is invited; hope to see you there.

EVERETT ACCREDITED BUYER REPRESENTATIVE DESIGNATION-Carol Everett, an associate broker affiliated with RE/MAX In The Mountains in Bethel, recently earned the Accredited Buyer Representative (ABRO) designation. This designation is the benchmark of excellence buyer representation. This coveted designation is awarded by the Real Estate BUYER'S AGENT Council (REBAC), an affiliate of the National Association of REALTORSÒ, to real estate practitioners who meet the specified educational and practical experience criteria. Carol is a native of Bethel and a graduate of Gould Academy. She is also a member of the Western Maine Board of REALTORSO and the National Association of REALTORSO.

The recipe of the week is Frothy Syllabub. You will need 1-1/2 cups of sugar, 2 cups of white wine, 5 tablespoons of grated lemon rind, 1/3 cup fresh lemon juice, 3 cups of milk, 2 cups of light cream, 4 egg whites and grated nutmeg. Stir one cup of sugar into wine, lemon rind, and juice. Let stand until sugar dissolves. Combine milk and cream. Pour wine into milk mixture; beat until frothy with a rotary egg beater. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually add remaining sugar, beating constantly until stiff. Pour milk mixture into punch bowl; top with spoonful puffs of egg white. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes sixteen 4-ounce servings. Please drink responsibly. This would be really good especially after you have been shoveling snow and ice.

See 'ya.

It is school vacation and everyone should watch out for kids — obviously they won't be on bicycles, but they will be out and about, perhaps on foot or snow sleds.

This Thursday, the 21st, oh that should be today, there is a supper at the Wilkins House in Waterford on Plummer's Hill Road. It begins at 6 p.m. and is a potluck. Hosts are Clara Hamlin and Joann Fillebrown.

On Saturday, the 23rd, there is a benefit supper for Western Maine Youth Hockey at North Waterford Church, 5 Kezar Road, across from Melby's. The supper is from 5 to 6 p.m. and the cost is: adults $7, 5-12 $3 and under 5 free.

On Saturday, there is also a film at the Norway Library at 7 p.m. It is "Adam's Apple" and is part of an independent film series every other Saturday. FMI: 743-5309.

During the day on Saturday REACH is holding an indoor yard sale at 1 East Main Street in South Paris from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Donations accepted. FMI:

Has everyone finished their taxes? I have worked on mine and am still missing part of it. It took time because I had to add up the expenses for deductions. I think I finally have it except for the use of my house as my office for last year.

Have a great week and enjoy whatever weather is upon us.

FUTURE VOTERS CAUCUS The fifth-graders at CPS have taken a strong interest in the presidential race, so they decided to hold their own Republican and Democratic caucuses recently. Many students researched candidates and wrote persuasive essays in order to be pre-pared to debate the key issues. For the Democrats, Barack Obama came away as the Winner, while Mitt Romney won for the Republican side. Since Romney dropped out of the race just days after CPS held their caucus, most of his supporters at CPS have now lent their support to Mike Huckabee, with two students backing John McGain. American Life in Poetry

Selection and comments by Ted Kooser, U.S. Poet Lauriet 2004-2006

Thirty, forty years ago, there were lots of hitchhikers, college students, bent old men and old women, and none of them seemed fearful of being out there on the highways at the mercy of strangers. All that's changed, and nobody wants to get in a car with a stranger. Here Steven Huff of New York tells us about a memorable ride.

You used to be able to flag a ride in this country.

Impossible now?everyone is afraid of strangers. Well, there was fear then too, and it was mutual: drivers versus hitchhikers.

And we rode without seat belts. insurance or beliefs. People would see me far ahead on a hill like a seedling, watch me grow in the windshield and not know they were going to stop until they got right up to me. Maybe they wanted company or thought I'd give them some excitement. It was the age of impulse, of lonesome knee jerks. An old woman stopped, blew smoke in my face and after I was already in her car she asked me if I wanted a ride. I'm telling you. Late one night a construction boss pulled over. One of his crew had been hit by the mob, he said as he drove, distraught and needing to talk to someone. We rode around for a long time. He said, I never wore a gun to a funeral before, but they've gotta be after me too.

Then he looked at me and patted the bulge in his coat. Don't worry, he said, you're safe.

From

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

A steady stream of visitors attended the 34th annual Bethel Historical Society Heritage Day held at the society's Regional History Center on Broad Street in Bethel, Warm Indian pudding was served from the hearth of the winter kitchen at the historic Dr. Moses Mason House. One of the recipes used was a favorite of the Glines' family, who once operated a popular eating place in Bethel. It was later followed by the late Judy Haskell for many years in providing this favorite dessert for Heritage Day for over twenty years. The Glines' recipe includes milk, sugar, molasses, eggs, cornmeal, salt and cinnamon and advises that it be baked in a bean pot for three hours.

Also during the afternoon, Jay Boschetti of Steam Mill Antiques examined a whole range of antiques and collectibles ranging from clocks, to campaign buttons, to pottery brought in for a valuation and commentary. Boschetti has spent many years since he was young collecting and dealing in vintage pieces and has operated his business in the Steam Mill section of Bethel for the past several years.

Craftspeople present during the afternoon were Lorrie Hoeh of Albany, Hildy Danforth of Shelburne, N.H., and Jane Peterson of Rumford demonstrating spinning and Grace McKivergan of Rumford, weaving.

Other attractions during the day were five exhibits (Androscoggin River, White Mountain Souvenirs, Maine Barns, O'Neil Robinson House and Bethel) at the O'Neil Robinson. There also were a series of historical films on local history subjects that held the attention of several during the day. Many thanks are also due the other volunteers who helped with museum tours, serving the Indian pudding and as cashiers. These included Jean Owen, Polly Davis, Annie Hastings, David Jones, Angela Connelly and Amy Davis.

ART AT THE VICTORIA-An art exhibit by "Artlandish Sisters" Cheryl Gaudiana-Erskine and Deborah Gaudiana will take place Sunday at the Victoria Inn in Bethel. The exhibit features "Boob Booty," paper mache art fashioned in the form of a woman's breast. The sisters were inspired to create the artwork after Cheryl received treatment last year for breast cancer. They describe their work as follows: "this paper mache breast can be filled with gifts, money, well wishes and personal items from family, friends and community. It is humorous and lighthearted, in hopes of easing one's journey through breast cancer with love and laughter. A portion of all proceeds will be donated to a breast cancer organization." Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served from 5 to 7 p.m., with an introduction at 5:30 p.m.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

BE A COMPETITIVE SELLER

You've decided that it is time to sell your home. Once your house is listed, you may be inclined to sit back and wait for your agent to do the selling. But if you remain an active participant in the sale, chances are it will sell faster - and for the best price.

A competitive seller stays tuned to developments in the real estate market. Ask your real estate agent about homes that have sold recently in your area. Check out those homes and see how they compare to yours in terms of price and condition. Do other properties show more improvements and better maintenance? Are there cosmetic or landscaping features you could add to enhance your home's curb appeal in the eyes of buyers? A competitive seller will use buyer feedback to make minor improvements such as repainting rooms, removing clutter or replacing worn carpet.

Ask your agent how buyers who view your home are responding, so you can be pro-active.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771 hearts And happy memories too, We never wanted memo-

We only wanted you." Keith, you will be dearly missed!
